Issue 1 July 31, 2015 Friday

Staff of the Day (7/31/15):

Staff of the Day:

All the Seniors who have dedicated their time to the success of CTWG 2015 Encampment

Word of the Day:

Excitement: a feeling of great enthusiasm and eagerness

Joke of the Day:

Why shouldn't you write with a broken pencil?

Because it's pointless.

Welcome to the CTWG 2015 Encampment!

Whether this is your first time on staff or you are a seasoned encampment professional, you are about to begin a week long journey. Encampment can be exciting, rewarding, and will test your leadership and organizational abilities at times. You were selected for your staff positions because others saw the ability, drive, and personality spark within you. You have the capability but this does not mean it will always be easy, use your chain of command and your senior mentors when you need, do not feel you need to know everything. Every staff member (Cadet and Senior) will make many mistakes this coming week, this is a leadership laboratory, we all will learn a lot together.

Have a great week, and thank you for willing to be on this years encampment staff. Without our staff we could not hold an encampment.

July 31, 2015: Blue Moon

Encampment begins with an astronomical phenomenon: a Blue Moon. A Blue moon is an additional full moon that appears in a month.

The lunar cycle is 29.53 days, there are typically 1 to 2 more days in a calendar month. The extra days accumulate, so every two to three years there is an extra full moon.

Safety Tip of the Day

Everyone is a Safety Officer, make sure everything you do is done safely.
